Civil Government.

There has been but little discussion of the proposition to adopt commission government for the city so far, but there are rumors of opposition this week. Some of the Republican leaders are said to be talking against the proposed charter and a meeting of Democrats, it is reported, has been held. The petition filed contained the names of a majority of the white voters and about half of the colored voters, nearly 1,200 in all. The business men generally are in favor of the new form of government. The colored people are nearly all said to be for the change. Their paper, edited by Phil Brown, had a strong article Saturday in support of the proposition.

Dave Kincheloe lived up to his reputation as an orator in his speech at the courthouse Saturday afternoon. He was introduced by Judge C. H. Bush and edified and entertained a large crowd with an outpouring of good old Democratic doctrine for an hour or more, with occasional flights of that fervid and eloquent oratory for which the next Congressman is noted. He made a great hit with all who heard him.

Mr. L. C. Newman, late of Mayfield, has started a new paper called the Leader at Lewisburg, Ky. It starts out with good advertising patronage and other evidences that it will be appreciated and properly supported by the people of the live little town in the Coonrange of Logan county.

The last week of the campaign finds the Democrats displaying great activity, with hundreds of speakers on the stump in every part of the State. The adjournment of Congress has released Senators James and Camden and all of the Congressmen, who are now making speeches every day.

The "Buy a Barrel of Apples" scheme is taking hold in great shape in the East, and should be followed by every farmer who has apples for sale. A great number of the officials at Washington, including the President, have bought their barrel. —Farmer's Home Journal.

The total number of prisoners of war confined in camps in Germany on October 21, as claimed in Berlin, was 5,401 officers and 291,468 men, including six French, thirteen Russian and three Belgian Generals. More prisoners are said to be on the way from the front.

Although Congress has adjourned, some of the Southern Congressmen are remaining at the capital, planning to keep in touch with Administration leaders with a view of expediting cotton legislation when Congress reassembles in December.

The jury in the trial of Mrs. Florence Carman, accused of slaying Mrs. Louise Bailey, disagreed and was discharged, and it was considered unlikely that the defendant will ever be brought to trial again.

IMMENSE
APPLE CROP

In The Great Fruit Belt of The State of Washington This Year.

PACKING HOUSES ALL BUSY.

One Town Is Packing 10,000 Boxes Of Apples a Day.

F. B. Wilkins, a Hopkinsville boy who is at North Yakima, Wash., in the great fruit district of the northwest, sends the Kentuckian a paper telling of the great fruit crop out there, from which this extract is taken:

"The rush season of the apple packing has struck produce row and 11 firms are running crews employing between 250 and 300 people in handling the delivery that is coming from the orchards. There was not less than 50 teams lined up at the several houses this morning, either unloading or waiting to unload apples, and many of them hauling home supplies to packinghouses in the orchards.

There are eight Price sizing machines at work in the 11 packinghouses, and all kinds of sorters and sizers known to the trade working in connection with the handling of the fruit. It would be interesting to speculate on the number of pounds of fruit that are in the air all the time during the hours the packers are at work. Each Price sizer has from three to a dozen apples in the air, and there are miles of others traveling over endless belts into cups and pockets till they finally pass the packer and the inspector and go into storage.

At the rate at which the packing is now being done there are no less than 10,000 boxes being packed daily in the 11 warehouses covering the three blocks from the fruitgrowers' warehouse on the north to the Coffin Bros. warehouse where the Thompson Fruit company is employing a big crew. In addition to the pack made from the apples coming into the houses in bulk, as many more boxes are coming in already packed and being loaded out for shipment or are going into storage.

The shipping is not as active as the receiving and packing at this time, owing to marketing conditions, and in many of the houses the daily receipts are ahead of the packing crew, and the apples are being put in storage till they can be reached. If the market demand should increase and the price strengthen, the crews would have to be increased to get the stock loaded for shipment. The present movement is about 50 cars a day.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED

Ray McCombs, Colored, Jailed In The Renshaw Case.

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Johnson and Officer Garland Jones went to Edgote Friday night and arrested Ray McCombs, col., a suspect in the Renshaw assassination case. One of the two negroes seen on the bridge has not been accounted for. The first one arrested is in jail at Henderson, as the case was not ready to be submitted to the grand jury. The officers are working hard on the case and have not yet given out the evidence they have against the man held for more than a month. Zuber Organ, a negro, arrested as a suspect, was turned loose after an examination.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Franklin are back from the Eastern markets. Mr. Franklin will early next month open a new dry goods store in the Cook building, in one of the rooms formerly occupied by Sprouse.

GERMANS FOUND
COAST TOO HOT

And Had To Fall Back Out of Range of The British Ships In The North Sea.

CROSS YSER CANAL DESPITE BELGIANS.

Battles Continue and Allies' Statement Issued at Paris Reports Little Change in General—Austrians Having Better Luck in Battle—Turkey to Stay Out.

London, Oct. 26.—Each day is but a repetition of the previous day in the battles being fought out in West Flanders, Northern France and Poland. One side gains a little at one point only to lose at another.

It appears from the official German and French reports that the Germans finding it impossible to advance along the coast toward Dunkirk owing to the fire from the British and French warships, took a route a little more inland and have succeeded in crossing the Yser canal which the Belgians have been defending stubbornly for a week to the west of Dixmude.

They also have made progress to the northeast of, and are still in possession of, Roulers, towards which the allies were advancing last week. The Germans claim to have taken five hundred British troops in this fighting neighborhood.

To add to the trials of the troops engaged in the desperate fighting, a short spell of fine weather has given place to another downpour of rain which will convert the lowlands of Flanders into the great lakes.

Of the battle on the center and left wing the German report does not speak. The French declare they are maintaining their positions in the Argonne and along the Meuse. From unofficial sources it is learned the French have made some advance in the mountains along the Alsace border.

In Poland a very heavy battle is in progress between the fortresses of Invargorod and Radom, where the Germans and Austrians, defeated in their first attempt to cross the Vistula, have made a stand.

Both sides have, according to their own reports, made prisoners and captured guns, but the battle, extending over a front of twenty-six miles, has not yet been decided.

The Austrians are still making a bold effort to cross the river San and are carrying on a splendid fight south of Przemyśl in hope of reaching and re-capturing Lemberg.

The Montenegrins admit they had to withdraw to their previous positions along the Bosnian frontier, after an attack by a superior force of Austrians. The latter seem to have made a wonderful recovery.

Turkey again has assured Great Britain, France and Russia that she intends to remain neutral. She continues her military activities, however, and is collecting transport animals, which, it is said, are destined for the Egyptian frontier. It is considered that the presence of strong Russian forces on the Turkish border has influenced her not to take any action against the allies.

It is estimated that the Germans lost 4,000 killed and wounded in Belgium on October 24 when their advancing line was bombarded by British warships. Firing started at 6 a. m., and continued without intermission for twelve hours.

The range of the ships' guns enabled them to shell the German trenches three miles inland. They destroyed a German field battery, dispersed a German bridging train which had been assembled to force a crossing of the Yser, blew up an ammunition column, killed Gen. Von Trip and all of his staff to the west of Westende and compelled the Germans to evacuate their position before Nieuport.

The firing was so rapid that some guns discharged fourteen projectiles per minute. At the end of the day the whole coast from Nieuport to Westende, was completely evacuated.

NEGRO CHILD
TORN BY DOGS

Chasing a Rabbit When Child Fell in Their Path and Was Attacked.

CHILD MAY NOT RECOVER.

Unusual and Horrible Near- Tragedy In The Edgote Neighborhood.

A six-year-old negro child, daughter of a cropper on Scott Winn's farm, near Edgote, was attacked and badly injured by a bull-dog Saturday. A cur dog and the bull dog were chasing a rabbit and ran against the child, knocking her down. When the girl fell she was immediately attacked by the bull dog and her head was almost torn from her body before assistance came and the dog was beaten off. The child was also bitten on the body by the other dog. Her injuries are of a very serious nature and she will probably not recover.

Mammoth Tobacco Leaf.

A leaf of tobacco on display in the Kentuckian office window measured 44 inches in length and 30 inches in width when it was cut from the stalk. The leaf is from a crop raised by Mr. Charles H. Faulkner, of near Gracey, and the grower says it is of the "Mortgage Lifter" variety.

GREETED WITH GUSTO

Hon. Gus Willson Met At Depot With Third Regiment Band And Escorted To Hotel.

SPOKE AT THE TABERNACLE.

Republican Candidate For The Senate Heard To-day In The Interest of His Campaign.

Yesterday was a big day with the Republicans, being the opening of their speaking campaign, with former Gov. A. E. Willson as the orator.

Gov. Willson was met at the morning train by a committee in carriages and escorted to Hotel Latham to the strains of stirring music by the Third Regiment band. In the committee were: Chairman C. R. Clark, Robt. A. Cook, Judge Jas. Breathitt, R. J. Caruthers and others and the route was down Ninth to Main, up Main to Sixth and thence to the hotel.

The speaking was at the Tabernacle at 1:30 o'clock and the distinguished speaker was greeted by a large crowd.

His speech was a characteristic defense of his own party and an arraignment of the Democrats. Gov. Willson is always an entertaining speaker and though he must realize that he is leading a forlorn hope, he was given a cordial reception by his followers.

DOWN IN DEFEAT

Orange and Gold Boys Unable To Keep Up Record At Owensboro.

THEY FOUND HEAVIER TEAM.

Who Clearly Out-Classed The Game Little Bunch—Dabney's Nose Broken.

At Owensboro Saturday, Owensboro High School rode rough shod over Hopkinsville, winning by 32 to 0. Owensboro was ten times penalized for rough play. Dabney, a visiting player, had his nose broken and had to be taken from the game.

Discussing this feature the Messenger says:

"From the sidelines one might have gleaned the impression that the Owensboro team was unnecessarily rough, but such was not the case. Every member of the club is at the acme of physical training. Time and again those backfield fiends would rush at an opponent whose designs were on an Owensboro goal, and so terrific was the impact that the thud of the bodies coming together could be plainly heard from the sidelines. The Hoppers could not withstand the withering fire of the great scoring machine, and long before the fourth quarter rolled around, they were ready to carry the 'old body' from the field. Penalties galore were inflicted by Referee Stone, from Madisonville, both sides getting their share of the drawbacks.

Coach Whitnell, the Hopkinsville coach, tried every way possible to stem the tide of defeat, but it was a hopeless task. He gave all the substitutes a chance to get into action. To his credit it can be said that his team put up a good fight, but against superior coaching and superbly trained athletes, they were weighed and found wanting."

The first quarter ended 0 to 0, but Owensboro made 12 in the second quarter. There was nothing doing in the third, but in the fourth quarter Owensboro scored again and the visitors were beaten in the end by 32 to 0.

Motor Vehicle Licenses.

Since June 16, when the present motor vehicle law went into effect the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Thomas S. Byars, has issued 5,930 automobile licenses, 800 motorcycle licenses and 1,536 chauffeur's licenses. The motor vehicle licenses issued since that date will expire January 1, when, it is estimated, the State will come in for about $56,000 revenue from this source.

HEAVY LOSSES
BY FIRES

Claude Wadlington And T. D. Davie Each Lose a Barn Filled With Tobacco.

ONE DWELLING NEAR KELLY.

The Three Fires Occurred Last Friday—Losses Aggregate About $4,500.

The residence of Thomas Owen, who resides a few miles west of Kelly, was consumed by fire Friday. Mr. Owen succeeded in saving nearly all of his furniture. The fire is supposed to have originated from a flue. It was not learned if there was any insurance.

A barn filled with tobacco belonging to Claud Wadlington, three miles west of Caledonia, was destroyed by fire Friday night. There was about twelve thousand pounds of tobacco in the building and Mr. Wadlington's loss is probably $1,200. The weed was being "fired" when in some manner it was ignited and the destruction of the building and its contents was complete.

T. G. Davie had the misfortune to lose a fine barn containing twenty acres of tobacco, on his farm three miles from Edgote, early Friday morning. The process of curing the weed was in progress when the tobacco became ignited. The tobacco belonged to W. M. Mabry, who had rented the land from Mr. Davie. The loss on the building is $1,000, and $2,000 on the crop of tobacco. There is a $1,000 insurance, it was learned, covering only about one-third of the loss sustained.

PICKPOCKETS
CAUGHT IN ACT

Two Negroes Lodged In Jail Charged With Stealing Purse With $230.

Two negroes named Calvin Burrus and Henry Miles, were arrested at the L. & N. Depot Friday evening, charged with robbing Louis Wilson, col., of his purse containing $230. Wilson is from Trenton and as he was boarding the train Miles grabbed his purse from his pocket. Wilson was alert and grappled with Miles who slipped the purse to Burrus, who in turn threw it over against the park wall when pressed by the police. Burrus was caught hiding on the blind baggage and both were locked up. Miles had a writing in his pocket giving a list of the dates of the Ringling show up to the closing date at Cairo Saturday. The police think he may be one of the pickpockets who have been following the show. The same negro tried to get possession of a suit case left at Hattie Ely's restaurant Friday morning by another negro. She refused to let him have it and the police have taken possession of it until the owner is found.

Democratic Ticket.

FOR CONGRESS.

David H. Kincheloe.

FOR SENATOR.

(Long Term.)

J. C. W. Beckham.

FOR SENATOR.

(Short Term.)

JOHNSON N. CAMDEN.

Sweet potatoes and apples are two things that are plentiful.

Even the city of Louisville, where Governor Beckham has had many bitter enemies in the past, will give not less than 5,000 majority for the Democratic nominee.

The election this year will have a distinct bearing on next year's contest when the Governor and all the State officers are to be elected. A great democratic victory this Fall will insure a democratic triumph next year. Go to the polls early and do your full duty by your party.

The Peace Policy of the President would alone entitle him to the support of every Democrat that loves his country. A vote for Governor Beckham and Senator Camden is as direct an endorsement of Woodrow Wilson as if the President himself had been voted for.

Gus Wilson, the Republican nominee for the Senate, rebukes and ridicules Woodrow Wilson in every speech he makes. If he were in the Senate he would oppose every measure that had the President's endorsement. The defeat of this reactionary back number, will be the surest way to approve our able and patriotic Democratic leader—Woodrow Wilson.

While the Republicans and Progressives are dividing the Republican vote and the election of the Democratic nominees seem certain, it will not do to take anything for granted in a political contest. The Republicans as a rule vote early and often and it behooves the Democratic voters to go to the polls and cast their votes for the nominees. That is the only way to make victory sure. More political battles are lost by over confidence than from any other cause.

Secretary of State Bryan's visit to Kentucky has served to arouse the state democracy to the importance of the November election. He has made it very clear that praise of President Wilson's policies counts for nothing unless the voters who commend him go to the polls and vote for the democratic candidates in the Senate and in the House who will continue to vote for the President.
This is not a one-man government, although Woodrow Wilson has the ability to run it single handed. He must have democratic majorities in both Houses for the great work that he has undertaken or the reform of the currency and the revival of business will prove a failure.

Governor Beckham has shown himself to be a great campaigner. Although he has been on the stump continually for nearly six months in the primary contest, after a few weeks rest he began his campaign
as democratic nominee for the Senate and has never missed a day or an hour. He is in the very prime of life with his physical and intellectual powers unimpaired. His whole life has been devoted to the study of public questions and he will take his seat in the Senate thoroughly equipped for its important duties.
The Democrats of Kentucky not only honor Governor Beckham, but they have a deep affection for him.

Married in Overalls.

stand before the altar with his bride in motoring overalls. Both bride and bridegroom reached the parish church by motorcycle, and the 35 guests were conveyed in a similar manner. The couple were Miss Mary Ferrier and Mr. Charles Cartwright. The proce-sion of gaily-decorated motorcycles scurrying along the streets with the bridal party provided a pleasant spectacle. This motoring marriage is to be carried through thoroughly, for even the honeymoon trip to Scotland will be done in a cycle and side-car.

a few branches, but the next year another point or more is gained, and so on, until, in several years, the an-red stag caught in England—a pair of antlers with 66 points.

Snow-Proof Boots.

Members of arctic expeditions have found that gum boots are not proof against the entrance of moisture for snow water seems to penetrate the rubber where the boots are in more or less constant use for a long period of time. This is prevented by an occasional application of shellac, which effectually keeps the moisture out, even when subjected to the hardest wear. Shellac can also be made use of to advantage in coating the thongs of snow shoes for the purpose of resisting the moisture when moving over the wet snow. The shoes thus treated enable the men to make much better headway over the snow with less effort. The thongs which have been treated with shellac are also said to dry out quicker after use than others.

WAS WOUNDED AT INKERMANN

Crimean Veteran, Disabled in Great Battle, Has Just Passed Away
in Home in England.

The death has just occurred at Lydney, England, of a Crimean war veteran—John Gamble, late of the Twenty-third Royal Welsh Fusiliers.
The deceased, who was born at Bath,
and who was of excellent build, preserved his martial bearing to the last.
His descriptions of the Crimean campaign, told in his own racy style, de-lighting many audiences and friends.
Gamble joined the army just before hostilities began, and proceeded immediately to the Crimea. At Inkerman, almost immediately after the battle had begun, a Russian succeeded in giving him a nasty cut over the eyebrow, but it was not sufficiently severe to occasion his retirement from the fighting line, though shortly afterward he received a bullet wound in the breast, which found its way through the lung, causing extensive hemorrhage. After eleven days in hospital there came a terrific snowstorm, which blew over the tent, but, contrary to expectation, he was taken out alive, and eventually recovered. On arriving home he was discharged as unfit for further military service and received a pension of 32 cents a day.

HE MAY END AS BILLIONAIRE

Present John Pierpont Morgan Has an Opportunity Which is Given to Few People.

In listing the richest men in the world as they will be named in the future we naturally turn to our own country and our own pet plutocrats.
John Pierpont Morgan, Jr., for instance, though he inherited only a part of the Morgan money, is distinctly a progressive, and there is no telling how many times he will turn his millions over.

This said the first John Pierpont Morgan had one ambition: Not to be the richest but to be the most powerful man in the world. Dying, he left property estimated at $100,000,- 000, though the world thought of him as a billionaire. Young John Pierpont Morgan has begun his career by moving into the new banking house erected on the site of the old building, and what his new methods will bring his father's old firm remains to be seen. He bears a name that is still a power in London, Paris and Berlin, and if he has an ambition to live up to it his possibilities are enormous.

BRYAN'S CALL TO KY. DEMOCRATS

ELOQUENT SPEECH DELIVERED IN LOUISVILLE AFTER MAKING ADDRESSES IN OTHER CITIES.

UPHOLD THE PRESIDENT BY ELECTING BECKHAM

Bryan Advises To Sustain President Wilson by Electing Democratic State Ticket—President Must Have Support of House and Senate in Great Work He is Doing.

Louisville, Ky.—(Special.)—Achievements of the Democratic party since its succession in power, in fulfillment of pledges made prior to 1912, were described by William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, following a one-day tour of the state, at a meeting held here Thursday night. He reviewed the work of President Wilson and made an earnest plea for the election in November of Mr. Beckham and Mr. Camden and the Democratic nominees for the House.

Mr. Bryan said in part: Ladies and Gentlemen—It is very pleasant to return to your great city under circumstances so favorable. The only embarrassment that I find in coming is a natural embarrassment, because we are prone, in civil life as well as in military life, to overestimate the part of those who lead and underestimate the work of the nameless multitude without whom a leader would be powerless. I have been trying for eighteen years to unload a large part of the credit that generous friends have been willing to bestow upon me. Because in three campaigns I occupied a position of leadership and carried the standard of the party, these friends, learning to know my name and not knowing the names of those for whom I stood, gave me the glory that belongs to all.

Two years ago I visited South America, and climbing up the Andes stopped for a day at Iquiquia. The rainfall is so small there and the sky so clear that Harvard University has established an observatory from which to photograph the stars. And they tell me that one night they turned their great telescope on a distant star, and when they examined the plate they found not one star, as they had thought, but more than 4,000 stars, and when they examined the heavens the stars appeared as one. And when I hear of that, I thought that it described just what we are prone to do in politics, and it fitted my case exactly, and I have been glad to tell these enthusiastic friends that that, which for many years they have been describing as Bryanism, was not anything for which I was especially responsible, but was the sentiment, the heartfelt sentiment of six and a half million of Democrats, of whom I was only one.

Kentucky's Stars.

And many of the stars that have helped to make up the light have been Kentucky stars. As I look back to the convention of 1896, in which this great reform began, or, rather, not in which it began, for that convention itself was the result of a struggle that lasted for something like a year—but as I look back to that convention, as I see myself again standing before that magnificent audience, I recall two faces that I shall not forget, for they seem to represent the enthusiasm of that body.

They were the faces of two stalwart men. One sat over here and one over there in that convention, and when that convention rose to applaud, these faces seemed to stand out more strongly than the rest. The man over here was Gov. Hogg, of Texas, one of the greatest men that that state has produced. And the man over here was Ollie James, of Kentucky. That was his entrance into politics, and he has remained, he has grown until he has become one of the great figures in our National Senate.

I never think of that audience that I addressed on that day without seeing his face—his boyish face—again. And as I have come into Kentucky, I have met your people from time to time and learned to know them, and one of those I have learned to know well is one who, after the fourth of March, will stand by the side of Senator James in the United States Senate, and I am down here in this state to-day, not because I doubt the result of this election, but for the double purpose of increasing, if I can, the majority for your two candidates for the Senate, Mr. Camden for the short term, and Mr. Beckham for the long term, and the return of all the members of Congress in whose districts I have appeared to speak.

I have been in several districts to-day, and I am glad that I close the day in the district of Mr. Sherley, a man who has gradually forged to the front until he stands to-day as one of the leaders of the Democratic House standing back of the President.

"UPHOLD PRESIDENT," HIS KEYNOTE

SECRETARY BRYAN.

gested by Gov. Beckham, it has been a long struggle, but it has been a delightful struggle. I know nothing that gives a man more real satisfaction than to feel that he stands for a cause that can not die. Yes, it has been a long struggle, tiresome at times and tedious, but a reward we have won. I thought I was happy two years ago. I did not think I could be happier than I was then. Then I had a chance to do something for Republicans that I had never been called upon to do before. I then indorsed the veracity of two Republicans who told the truth about each other, and I thought I was having the time of my life, but I am happier now than I was then. I have been here I think three times when I have myself been the candidate, and I have been here at other times when I came to appeal for other candidates, but during all these years I have made a different speech from that which you will hear to-night.

Hopes Then; Realization Now.

They say we in politics say the same things over and over. That is partially true, but I have a new speech for you. I have never had a chance to deliver this speech for you. Heretofore I have fed you on hopes; now I will stuff you with realization. Heretofore I have told you what we would do if you would just give us a chance; and now I have come to tell you that the half had not been told. Why, that which has been accomplished has exceeded the promises of the party, and even the expectations of the most sanguine of us.

It is hard to describe what happened two years ago. We have to go away back into history to find anything like it, back thousands of years, and the nearest parallel I have found is in Holy Writ. It is where the Red Sea opened and allowed the children of Israel to pass through. For did not the Republican party divide in the center, and did not the Democratic President march through?

And what a record he has made. Wonderful! And he could not have made it without a Democratic Senate and a Democratic House.

The President's Labors.

This is not a one-man government. One man in the White House can do great things, and yet from the beginning to the end our constitution bears the impress of the idea of co-operation. The President can recommend. That is the beginning. And he can sign the bill. That is the end. The President's actions are the Alpha and Omega, but the rest of the alphabet is in the Senate and the House. Unless the President has the Senate and the House in sympathy with him, his recommendations are in vain. Unless he has the Senate and the House to send him bills to sign, he waits pen in hand in vain. But, fortunately, the same tidal wave that carried our party to the White House gave us a substantial majority in both the Senate and the House, and this President of ours began work at once. According to the constitution he had from March to December to rest and look around. But he did not need rest, and he did not care to look around. And so he just called Congress together and kept Congress together. In all the nation's history no Congress has even been in session so long, and no Congress, has been more busy while in session, for the President kept the hopper full. Just as soon as one piece of legislation was ground out he had another proposition ready to be considered; and working together, they have given us a record without parallel in the history of our nation, for no other President has ever accomplished so much as has Mr. Wilson.

Elect Beckham and Camden.

I desire first to emphasize the fact, and I desire you to bear in mind, as I proceed, the fact, that the President could not have given you one single act of remedial legislation had he not had a Democratic Senate and House, and the further fact that after March 4 the Republicans have either the Senate or the House, he can not after that date give you any other remedial legislation. If you want these ideas carried out, the only way to carry them out is to elect Democrats there to support him. In this state the only way to help carry out these ideas and continue these reforms is to elect Beckham and Camden to the Senate.

short term, you have done your best to help in the Senate, and if in this district you re-elect Sherley to the House you have done your best in the House of Representatives. More than that, let me ask you to remember this, too, that the only way in which you can register your approval of the splendid record of our splendid President is to write it on your ballot on election day.

Ballot the Only Way to Express That Approval.

It is pleasant to have two Republicans meet upon the street and say, "Is he not doing great work?" But it is of no avail if they believe their words by voting for Republicans on election day. You might meet in mass-meeting and by unanimous vote commend the President's course, but if you go to the polls and vote for Republicans who tie his hands and paralyze his efforts, you have not lived up to your representation.

Let me now call your attention briefly to the larger points of this great record that you may decide for yourselves whether you desire to commend the President or to condemn. I am not here to tell you how to vote. I am here rather to tell you about your vote and how your vote will count on one side or the other.

The first thing to which the President addressed himself was the tariff question. It is an old question, so old that none of us can remember when this fight began. I began making stump speeches when I was twenty years of age, and I have been in it now thirty-four years. This is my eighteenth campaign, Congressional or Presidential. I began fighting for a reduction of the tariff thirty-four years ago, and Kentucky began long before I began. You have been a pioneer in the war of tariff reform, and your great men have stood in the forefront of this great conflict.

Tariff Law the Best.

The President, by co-operation with the Senate and House, has produced the best tariff law the country has had since the Civil War. I speak advisedly, for I was on the committee that prepared the only other tariff reduction law that we have ever had in fifty years, the law of 1894. And this law is better than that law was. That was the best law that we could get under those conditions, but we have better conditions now and we have a better law. This law gives us lower tariff rates than I thought it was possible to get, and it not only gave the people relief—the consumers of the country—but it set a nation free. As I look back over the campaign in which I have participated I do not recall another campaign until this one when they did not bring out the threat of panic to terrorize the nation. The beneficiaries of protection who had their hands in the pockets of the nation who had been making the laws that determined the amount that they should collect from the people—these people had at every campaign used a part of the money they had collected by unjust laws to deceive those who could be deceived, to purchase those that could be purchased, and to intimidate those who could be intimidated.

Calamity Threats Failed.

They had told the farmer that he would lose his home markets if he reduced the tariff. They had told the laboring men if they dared to vote for tariff reduction their bread and butter would be taken from them, and they had warned business men that the wheels of industry and of commerce would stop if they dared to lay a hostile hand on these sacred tariff schedules, and in some of the campaigns they had posted up notices in the shops that the laborers need not come back on Wednesday unless the Republican party was successful. This is what they have done, and they have deceived and misled many honest, well-minded persons, and I suppose some of the more timid ones were almost afraid to wake up the morning after that law went into effect, for fear darkness would cover the land. But when they awoke they found the sun rose as usual, they found the soil had lost none of its fertility, they found that the energies of the nation had not been impaired, and then they saw that they had been fooled, and then the dissolved by retirement of the senior member.

If President Wilson had done nothing more, he has emancipated the nation from thralldom to the beneficiaries of protection, and now every citizen of this country can walk up to the polls and vote as he pleases without fear of being run out of business.

The Income Tax.

But I had another surprise. They made the tariff rates lower than I expected them to be. I have been in favor of an income tax ever since I have been in politics. I believed in the tax we had twenty years ago, and when I think how we who had advocated it were denounced as demagogues and disturbers of the peace, and called everything down to anarchists because we favored a 2 per cent. tax on incomes and then when I see a tax to-day, ranging from 1 per cent to 7 per cent, and the whole country accepting it, I am ashamed of the moderation that characterized our earlier years. Yes, an income tax of from 1 per cent to 7 per cent, and every dollar of it lessened to that extent the burden to be borne by the struggling masses of the country. Not one man in ten will pay an income tax, for not one man in ten has an income of $3,000, and those whose incomes are less are entirely free from this burden. But these men are exempt. Why? Because under the other taxes they bear more than their share, while under the other taxes the men now taxed with the income tax bear less than their share. Therefore, at least, nine out of every ten are benefited by the income tax, having their own burden lightened, while those who now pay the income tax are only bearing burdens that heretofore they have shifted to the backs of others. I say one in ten of all the people. It is better than that. Why, not even one Republican in ten will pay an income tax, and the other nine Republicans ought to thank the Democratic party for making the one come up and bear his share. Among the Democrats not one in thirty will pay an income tax. Of course the Republicans will pay more income tax than the Democrats. Why should they not? They have the incomes on which to pay, and that is a pretty good test of what a man has been getting out of the government. These Republicans have been holding the national offices all these years and drawing the national salaries all these years, and they fixed the salaries themselves, and they have been generous to themselves. Not only that, but having the government in the center of what they have been voting favors and privileges to themselves. Now, having for a generation taken from the people money that they ought not to have taken, they ought to be satisfied, if we let them keep what they got, to pay a little income tax on it.

A Story on the Tariff.

Why didn't the Republican party bring you relief in taxation? Why didn't the Republican party reduce the tariff? It had a chance. All factions and wings of the Republican party have had a chance. Taft had a chance, but he didn't improve the opportunity, and Roosevelt had twice as long to do nothing in and he didn't do it. Why didn't they reduce the tariff?

Let me tell you a story that illustrates why. A man went into a clothing store, and when the merchant was not looking he snatched up a rapeseed and put it on and ran out. As he went out the door the merchant caught sight of him and took after him, crying, "Stop thief!" But he didn't stop. The policeman joined in the chase and shouted "Stop thief!" but he didn't stop, and then the policeman drew his revolver and said "Stop or I will shoot!" The merchant became frightened and grabbed the policeman and said, "Mister policeman, if you do shoot, shoot him in the pants; the coat belongs to me."

Republicans Couldn't Shoot.

The Republicans could not shoot the protection thief, for he was clothed from head to foot in the things they owned, and if they went to consider the tariff they would find that they were clothed in the things they owned. Another said, "Don't touch cotton goods; I am interested in the cotton goods business." Another said, "Keep away from boots and shoes; that is my business." And so when they went around they found some prominent Republicans who represented every industry profited by every schedule. So instead of reducing, they raised it all around that they might have more to contribute to the next campaign. That is why they didn't reduce the tariff. But when the Democratic party got there it could shoot that thief anywhere, for it didn't have anything on that belonged to any of its members.

Why would not the Republican party give us an income tax? I remember that in the second passage of the income tax law twenty years ago, we had the opposition of all the Republican party and a big part of the Democratic party. We had the men who control the Republican party were the men with large incomes, and they preferred to put the burden on government upon the poorer members of the Republican party that they might enjoy the privileges and favors without bearing their share of the expenses of government.

Currency Reform.

So, when the taxation crop was laid by, the President then took up the currency question and here was another question upon which the Republicans had had every chance. Why didn't the Republican party reform the currency? They didn't know that it needed reforming; they can go back eighteen years and you will find the Republicans had had every chance to reform the currency. They didn't dare to present the only kind of reform that they proposed.

When Wall Street Ruined.

What a difference between the two systems—the old and the new. We had the old system in 1907 and under the old system the bank of the country was ruined. The money had to go down to Wall Street to get it and in order to get it it had to go down on its knees and beg for it. And it got it, and it got it on the terms that Wall Street fixed, and the man who got it had indelibly impressed on his memory that it was a special favor that he had received. He had received it, and he attached a string to it so that they could draw it back when they wanted it without regard to the welfare of the community. You had not only to go to New York if you wanted to borrow money, but if you wanted to get your own money some time they would spare it. In 1907 they had money from the South which they had invested in their watered stock; when the water was squeezed out they couldn't draw it back, so they came to New York and asked for it and they said no. You asked for bread and they gave you a stone. You asked for your money and they gave you a clean bill of exchange. And when you said you had to have money to pay your depositors, they said, "Why don't you treat your depositors like we treat yours? And then in the night the wires spread the conspiracy that was formed from ocean to ocean, and the next morning the citizens of the country were not to draw their own money back, but the banks where they had deposited it. That was what happened in 1907. I ask you business men, I ask you financiers, I ask you Republicans, if that old system broke down in times of profound peace, where would that system be now with a war over half the world.

Change in Financial Center.

Why didn't they give you a currency reform? Because the only kind they thought of was a reforming of the currency and not a reforming of it. The only plan they had was to fasten more securely on you the chains of the money trust. The most important thing about this bill is that it transfers the financial center of the country from New York to Washington. It is only a short distance, a little over 200 miles. The difference is short that a lobbyist can take the train in New York at midnight and be in Washington long enough to bother both Senators and the House. The House Congress convenes the next day. And yet it took over forty years to drag the center of finance 200 miles.

Audience Votes for New System.

I used to think in my younger days that

THE STANDARD BEARER IN THE STATE

J. C. W. BECKHAM,

Democratic Nominee for United States Senator.

fluence in myself that I used to have. Several times I have found a man with a good, honest face, and I have said, there is a Democrat, and on inquiry I found that he was a Republican. But that his mother was a Democrat. So I do not know what kind of an audience this is, but I am going to risk my judgment. I am going to venture the assertion that nine out of ten of this audience, Democrats, Republicans, Progressives or whatever, will, when I take a vote, vote in favor of the new system rather than of the old one. I am going to risk my judgment, and those of you who like the new system with the center of finance at Washington better than you do the old one, hold up your hands.

(There was a sea of hands upheld.) Now, all of you who would like to go back to the old system, hold up your hands in charge, let us see your hands. (There was not a hand.) See how conservative I was in my opinion. I said ten to one and it is everybody to nothing. It is not glorious to think that a Democratic President and a Democratic Senate and a Democratic House would take the work that a Republican President, Senate and House might have done and did not do and do that work so well that even the people that bested against the bill while it was being passed are now indorsing it as the best financial system that this country ever saw?

Dealing With Trusts.

And when they got the currency crop laid by they took up the trust question and here was another question upon which the Republicans had had every chance. The first provides for a trades commission that will, as far as an administrative body can do it, protect us from the trusts. Then there is the Clayton law, signed or to be signed shortly, for it has passed both Houses, and the President has already signed its approval. That Clayton law prohibits interlocking directorates. That Clayton law prohibits discrimination in price and that Clayton law gives to the laboring men what we have been trying for eighteen years to secure for them—relief from government by injunction—and it makes a distinction that ought to have been drawn in the beginning between a man's labor, which is a part of himself, and inanimate things we call merchandise. That is what has been done so far in that line. It is the first time we have had a President who dared to lay the ax at the root of the tree. Why did not President Taft do this? He was afraid to do it. Why did not President Roosevelt lay the ax at the root of the tree? Because they were leaning against the tree, and they didn't want to lose their support. But Wilson was the first President we have had who was free from entanglements, free to take the people's side.

McAdoo and the Banks.

And then a few days ago Secretary McAdoo learned that some of the banks were not using the money that they had borrowed from the government. He learned that some of them, instead of lending it out as banks should to meet the needs of their communities, were using it for speculation, and he looked around to see what he could do. He had not had a chance yet to ask him how he found out this remedy, but I can guess. I guess he went to the Bible. That is one advantage the Democrats have over the Republicans. He went to the Bible and he found a case that just fitted this one. He found the parable of the talents. He found that one who had received one talent, instead of using it, wrapped it in a napkin and hid it in the earth, and he found that, according to the Bible, when the master came he called up this man who had refused to use his talent and he took it from him and gave it to those who would use it. I guess that is the thing to do; and he just issued a notice that if any bank got money from the government and instead of using it to help the business of the community, wrapped it up in a napkin and hid it in the vault, it must give it back, that it might be used to help the community. That is what comes of having a President on the side of the people.

Now, my friends, believe that the sentiment of this country is overwhelmingly back of this law and I am going to put my judgment to the test. I do not know just what kind of an audience we have. It looks good to me, but I can not tell how many Republicans are here. It is so hard nowadays, when the Republicans are finding out the error of their ways, to tell Republicans and Democrats apart. They even try to laugh like Democrats, so I don't know what kind of an audience this is.

Merchant Marine.

I have now given you a few of the great things that I might call your attention to the fact that the Republican party for a generation has been talking of a merchant marine, but the Democratic party started a merchant marine without talking about it. And I may remind you that the Republican leaders who have spent a generation trying to belittle the patriotism and intelligence of the Democratic party, the Republican leaders who have been telling the nation that the Democratic party did not have intelligence enough to conduct this government, that after the Democratic party has proceeded to do the things that the Republican party ought to have done and done many of them, that those leaders dare not challenge the nation's judgment on one single measure of the Democratic party and now in this campaign are trying to dodge the issue and instead of talking about permanent things that have been accomplished try to beguile you with the details of the temporary measure called the merchant marine.

try to take advantage of the war that has come, come without any fault on the part of the Democratic party or of the nation, and while the President is trying to protect the business interests of this country and instead of withdrawing the money from the banks and thus compelling the banks to withdraw money from business and cripple business, he has the courage to ask the American people to take this burden upon themselves for the protection of the country.

The President and International Problems.

And while he has been solving the problems at home, he has had to bear a load in the nature of international problems heavier than often falls to the lot of a President. These troubles are not of his making. Some of them were inherited from the previous administration. The Mexican situation developed before the President took the oath of office. In February prior to the 4th of March, Huerta turned against the President and then allowed him to be assassinated while he was his captive. And you will find in the records of the State Department a telegram which Huerta sent to President Taft, "I have overthrown the government."

And then this man had the impudence to ask President Wilson to recognize him as President of Mexico. But President Wilson said "No." He couldn't overlook the methods employed and he could not ignore the fact that this man had by force of arms extended a hateful despotism over an unwilling people. He began his policy of watchful waiting, and announced that instead of using force, he would use moral pressure, and then the Republicans began to laugh at watchful waiting and jeer at moral pressure. The Republican leaders demanded that he recognize Huerta and the Jingro Republican press wanted to know why he didn't send an army to Mexico to restore order there.

But he stood firm, and finally, by pushing and pushing and pushing, he pushed Huerta out of Mexico, and he pushed the American Legation, and he pushed the difference between the methods employed here and there; and the mothers of this country, whose hearts are sad as they sympathize with the mothers of Europe, from whose homes the breadwinners have been drawn to the battle front—these mothers whose sons, the President, the Democratic leaders, might now be perishing upon foreign soil in an unnecessary war—these mothers ought to thank God for the man who kept peace in the western world.

Where, I ask you, would this nation be to-day if, when an opportunity such as never has come before, it were not in position to improve that opportunity? And how could we be the peacemaker of the world if we were busy trying to sell our brothers in the republic abroad the Rio Grande? Here stands a nation the diplomatic clearing house of all the world. Get into the countries that are at war, and everywhere you will find all the business being done by the American Embassy and the American Legation. And the things have been accomplished the President has put his powerful influence back of a peace plan that has spread more rapidly than any other peace plan ever spread. It has been only a year and a half since it was proposed, and yet it has been indorsed in principle by almost every important nation in the world. Thirty-four nations, altogether, and we have twenty-nine treaties signed.

"They used to talk of these little treaties, but they talk of them no more, for five of them signed on September 15, included Great Britain, France, Spain, China and Russia, five governments that exercise authority over more than one billion human beings and was not only have these treaties that link us to something like three-quarters of all the people on God's footstool, but in addition to this we have the principle indorsed by Germany and Austria and the world that before we celebrate again the birthday of the Prince of Peace we shall be united by those treaties to every important nation in the world and these treaties provide that whenever any dispute arises, no matter what kind of a dispute it is, if it defies diplomatic settlement, it must be submitted for investigation to a permanent international tribunal, and a year's time must be given for investigation and for passions to subside and for reason to resume its sway. They will not declare war or begin hostilities until the cessation of that time.

Americans Are Proud of Wilson.

These, my friends, are a part of the record of Woodrow Wilson and of the Senate and the House that have stood back of him. Would you rebuke a man who has made such a record as that? No, you would not rebuke him, not if you could take him off in some quiet place and whisper his condemnation in his ears, but you can not find a quiet place. There is no obscure place to which you can take your President and visit your condemnation on him if you would. He stands before the world. He stands where all the world looks on, and if you humiliate him you must humiliate him in the eyes of all mankind. But, my friends, you will not do it. You are proud of this President. You glory in a chief executive who has lifted the American flag until it is seen the world around. What will you do? Will you haul down that flag? No, I believe when election comes not only will all the Democrats march side by side and express their approval by their ballots, but I believe

BLINDFOLD DRIVE MADE

By The Hypnotist Fayssoux and Hidden Letter Found.

At seven o'clock Saturday night, Fayssoux, the hypnotist hypnotized Frank Hines of Sturgis, and placed him in the rotunda of the Rex theatre, where he remained until 8:15 o'clock last night, when he was due to be aroused. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock Fayssoux gave a blindfold drive on the principal streets, accompanied by Mayor Yost, Mr. Van Dulin and Chief Roper as a committee.

CIRCUIT COURT ON CIVIL MATTERS

Judge Hanbery Has Recovered And Is Back on The Bench.

Circuit Court has this week resumed the trial of civil matters with Judge Hanbery back on the bench. He was so far recovered Saturday that he presided that day during the brief session held.

The cases on the docket for the next few days are mostly minor matters.

AMUSEMENTS.

The marvelous Fayssoux, the youthful psychic wonder, who has upset the ancient theories of the old time hypnotists and mind readers and whose demonstrations have startled scientists and the public alike, opened a three nights' engagement at Holland's Opera House last night, a large crowd being present.

Mirth and mystery are deftly blended in the sensational exhibition given by the youthful prodigy, whose wonderful talent as a hypnotist has awakened the keen interest in the minds of theatre going people of the principal cities of America.

Money In Pecans.

The pecan crop down in the Wabash Valley is said to be larger than the crop of 1912 which was the bumper as compared with all previous crops. The pecan trees in the Wabash Valley are said to be the longest and most productive in the United States. At one time it looked as if the pecan timber in that region was doomed to extinction but the organization of nut growers' associations has stimulated interest in the pecan business and now the farmers are saving their old trees and planting new ones. They have no trouble in selling the nuts at good prices and some of them are finding their pecan groves the most profitable part of their farms.—State Journal.

KILLS STRAW TICKLER.

Tickling a friend's nose with a straw led to the death of Elmon J. Lissey, thirty years old, of North Braddock. According to the report received at the coroner's office, Lissey visited his friend, John Quentin, and when he entered the house he found Quentin in bed, dozing. Taking a straw, Lissey began to tickle Quentin's nose.

Awakened suddenly from his nap by the irritation of the straw point, Quentin jumped up in bed, pulled his revolver from under the pillow, and in a friendly manner pointed it at Lissey.

The latter, thinking his friend over-excited and about to shoot, grappled with him, and in the scuffle the revolver was discharged, the bullet entering Lissey's heart and instantly killing him.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

I am now well and happy. We have a baby boy. He is our first and only child.

"I am now well and happy. We have a baby boy, which we believe is the direct consequence of my improved health. He is our first and only child, and if Peruna had not cured me of my ailments we should never have had him. I hope every suffering woman will give Peruna a trial, the same as I have."

WOMAN SUFFRAGE ASS'N CONVENTION

6TH ANNUAL MEETING OF NATIONAL AMERICAN WOMAN SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION.

ORGANIZED IN 43 STATES

Members From All Parts of United States Will Be in Nashville, Tenn., on November 10 and 11—Many Prominent Women Leaders Will Be in Attendance.

Suffragists from all parts of the United States will arrive in Nashville, Tennessee, on November 10 and 11, for the Forty-sixth Annual Convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, and the delegates will represent over sixty branches of the association which have been organized in forty-three states. There will be women prominent socially, in the professions and in all kinds of reform work. Some of the delegates will come from equal suffrage states, and they will tell the result of votes for women from personal experience. Among them will be Jane Addams, of Hull House, who is now an Illinois voter; Mrs. Mary C. C. Bradford, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Colorado; Miss Helen Eaker, of Kansas; Mrs. Frances Munds, of Arizona, and Mrs. Catherine Vaughn McCulloch, of Chicago, well-known as a lawyer and justice of the peace. The most interesting women voters, because they will be brand new ones, will come from states where suffrage amendments are to be voted on November 3d. These states are Montana, Nevada, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri and Ohio. Miss Anne Martin, President of the Nevada Equal Franchise Association, writes that she can not miss the National Convention, but, on the other hand, how can she leave Nevada until all the returns are in, and it usually takes a week to know results there.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, President National American Woman Suffrage Association.

Other delegates, who are leading their state campaigns this year, will be Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ohio; Mrs. Draper Smith, of Nebraska; Miss Jeanette Rankin, of Montana; Mrs. Clara L. Darrow, of North Dakota; Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, of Missouri; and Mrs. John Pyle, of South Dakota.

Of course, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, President of the National Suffrage Association, who is the orator of the Cause and universally loved because of her enthusiasm, her sympathy and her great sense of humor, will be there, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, and also Chairman of the Empire State Campaign Committee, whom every convention proves the greatest statesman of the suffrage movement for she is eloquent and at the same time just, logical and far-seeing.

The call for the convention says: "Our task will be to formulate judgment on those great issues of the day which nearly concern women; to choose leaders who, during the coming year who are to guide the fortunes of our cause; and, finally, to deliberate how the whole National body may, on the one hand, best give aid and succor to the states working for their own enfranchisement, and, on the other, press for federal action in behalf of the women of the nation at large." The call is signed by the National officers: Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Moynan, Pa.; Miss Jane Addams, Chicago; Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Lexington, Ky.; Miss Caroline Rautz-Rees, Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, Jamaica Plains, Mass.; Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Boston; Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, New York; and Mrs. Joseph Tilton Bowen, Chicago.

The day-time sessions of the convention will be devoted to business and the evenings to public meetings. The National officers have urged all the members of the Executive Council to meet in Nashville on the morning of November 11 and devote the entire day to a conference on the problems of the National Association, so that constructive plans can be suggested to the convention, and no time will be spent in futile discussion. The first regular session of the convention will be held on November 12. It is expected that the most interesting discussion will follow the report of Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Chicago, Chairman of the Congressional Committee of the National Suffrage Association, as delegates from all over the country will express their views on the relation between State and National work and on the campaigns for the ratification of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States. One session will be devoted to a lively controversy on methods for organizing and campaigning, in which it is expected that all delegates will take part. The National officers will report on the coming year. Mrs. Cyrus Field, of New York, will report on the National Suffrage Publishing Co., a business corporation formed to supply suffrage literature throughout the United States, and officers for the National Association will be elected.

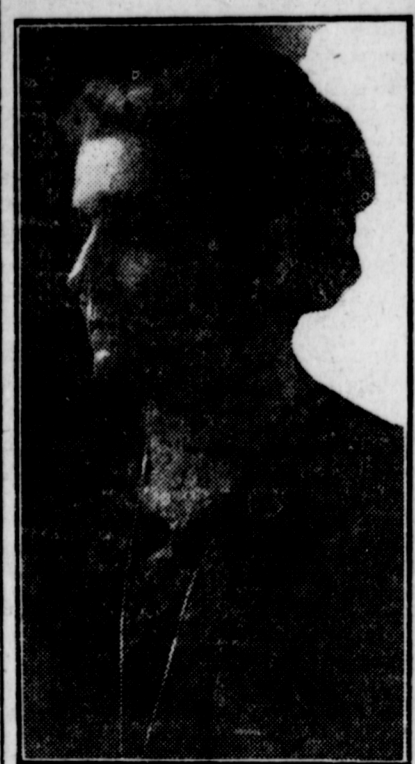

On Thursday, November 12, it is expected that Gov. W. B. Hooper, of Tennessee; Mayor Hillary Howe, of Nashville; Mrs. Crozier-French, President of the Tennessee Suffrage Association, and Mrs. Guilford Dudley, President of the Nashville Suffrage Association, will welcome the convention. Dr. Shaw will make the annual address on that evening, and the convention will celebrate the November 3d victories for women suffrage.

Friday, November 13, Voter's Evening will be held under the auspices of the Men's League for Woman Suffrage, with Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, of New York, presiding. At the evening meeting on Saturday there will be a discussion of State and National campaigns, with Mrs. Alice Stone Blackwell, of Boston, editor of the Woman's Journal; Antoinette Funk, of Chicago, and Mrs. Glenn Smith, of Minneapolis, among the speakers. Miss Zona Gale will read a new Friendship Village story, with a suffrage moral.

On Sunday afternoon there will be a mass meeting, at which the speakers will be Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer, of Budapest; Mrs. Raymond Robins, of Chicago; and Mrs. Desha Breckinridge. Mrs. Schwimmer is Secretary of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, and is a most active worker for the cause in Hungary. She is now making a speaking tour in Ohio, where her audiences are most enthusiastic over her eloquence and wit. Mrs. Raymond Robins is well known as the President of the National Woman's Trade Union League, and Mrs. Breckinridge, of course, needs no introduction to southern audiences.

Sunday evening the officers of the National Association will give a reception to delegates and friends. On Monday evening the great new ending picture suffrage play, "Your Girl and Mine," will be presented. This play comes out under the joint auspices of Mrs. Medill McCormick and Mr. William N. Selig, who, besides being one of the largest producers in the moving picture world, is said to be a convinced suffragist as well. Mrs. McCormick and Mr. Selig have financed the production, the proceeds of which will go to the National Suffrage Association. The principal roles are taken by Miss Olive Wyndham, Miss Katherine Kaehner, leading lady in Joseph and His Brethren; Sydney Booth, of "The Yellow Ticket" company, nephew of Edwin Booth, and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw.

Nashville is said to be so enthusiastic over entertaining the convention that it will grudge the time necessarily devoted to business sessions. Nashville women are arranging a parade, also an old-fashioned barbecue at Andrew Jackson's old home, "The Hermitage," called the Mount Vernon of the South. There will, of course, be many informal dinners and luncheons during the convention, and an afternoon tea at one of the beautiful country clubs. On Monday evening the suffragists in charge of the press work throughout the country will dine and discuss plans for the coming year. Another evening, the professional women of the convention will meet at dinner. The professional women's dinner arranged by Dr. Eliza Taylor Ransom, of Boston, during last year's Washington convention was a great success, the guests including many of the best-known ministers, doctors and lawyers in the United States.

But it is not so much the social events which make a convention interesting as it is the general comradeship and interchange of ideas among women from all parts of the country. The women of the north and west are especially interested in the manly brilliant Southern women who are giving their time and energy to the cause of an suffrage. Among these women are: Virginia—Mrs. Lila Mead Valentine, Richmond, President of the Virginia Equal Suffrage Association; Miss Edith Glasgow, Richmond; Miss Mary Johnston, Warm Springs, Virginia; Mrs. Kate Walker Barrett, Alexandria, Virginia; North Carolina—Mrs. A. Henderson, Chapel Hill, President of the Equal Franchise League; Miss Anna Forbes Liddell, Charlotte; Miss Susanne Bynum, Columbia, South Carolina—Mrs. Coleman, Abbeville, President of the Equal Suffrage League; Mrs. Henry Martin, Columbia; Miss Susan Frost, Charleston, Georgia—Mrs. Mary McLendon, Atlanta, President of Georgia Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. Emily McDougald, Atlanta, President Equal Suffrage Party; Mrs. Frances S. Whiteside, Atlanta, Florida—Mrs. Roselle C. Cooley, Jacksonville, President of Equal Franchise Association; Rev. Mary Sanford, Orlando, President Florida Woman Suffrage Association; Miss Frances Anderson, Jacksonville, Alabama—Mrs. Pattie Jacobs, Birmingham, President of Equal Suffrage Association; Mrs. Oscar Hundley, Birmingham; Mrs. S. B. Stern, Montgomery, Mississippi—Mrs. Annie K. Dent, Yazoo City, President of Woman's Suffrage Association; Mrs. Nugent Somerville, Greenville; Miss Pauline Orr, Jacksonville, Tennessee—Miss Maria Thompson Daviess, Nashville; Miss Sarah Barwell Elliott, Sewanee; Mrs. Crozier French, Knoxville, Kentucky—Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Lexington, President of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association; Miss Laura Clay, Richmond; Mrs. James Leech, Louisville, Louisiana—Miss Kate Gordon, New Orleans, President of the Southern States Woman Suffrage Conference; Miss Jean Gordon, New Orleans, President of the Louisiana Woman Suffrage Association; Mrs. Edgar M. Cahoon, New Orleans, President of Texas Woman Suffrage Association; Miss Eleanor W. Brackenridge, San Antonio; Mrs. Horatense Ward, Dallas.

The rapid growth of the Southern organizations both in members and enthusiasm is alone sufficient to contradict the prediction, which used to be frequently made, that the South would never endorse votes for women. In fact, it was generally said at Washington last year that the presence of so many charming, alert Southern women was the most inspiring thing about the Convention. Nashville itself, as well as the organized suffragists of Tennessee, is prepared to give a warm welcome to the women who are leaving their homes and their important work in order to take counsel together for the coming year. The city of Nashville, the Chamber of Commerce, the Business Men's Association, and the newspapers are all co-operating to furnish a warm welcome to the Convention. The program for the Convention is in charge of the following Committee: Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Moynan, Pa., chairman; Mrs. Mary Ware Denny, 509 Fifth Avenue, New York, Secretary; Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Boston; Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, Nashville; Miss Jean Gordon, New Orleans; Miss Edith Glasgow, New York; Mrs. Ernest Thompson-Seton, of Connecticut, is the National chairman of local arrangements, and Mr. John S. Kennedy, of Nashville, is Tennessee's chairman of local arrangements. Convention headquarters will be at the Hermitage Hotel.

WHAT THE DEMOCRATS HAVE DONE.

Here are some of the progressive measures urged by a Democratic president and passed by a Democratic Congress:

The currency system reformed and twelve Regional Reserve Banks established.

A Federal Trade Commission created to investigate the conduct and practice of industrial corporations, and to aid the Department of Justice in the prosecution of offenders.

The Clayton Anti-trust Act which provides for guilt of individuals connected with corporations convicted of violating the anti-trust laws, limits interlocking directorates, prohibits holding companies which lessen competition, prevents exclusive and tying contracts, liberalizes laws relating to injunction and contempt and exempts from prosecution under anti-trust laws agricultural, horticultural, fraternal and labor organizations.

Act repealing provisions of the Panama Canal law exempting from payment of tolls American vessels engaged in coastwise shipping of the United States.

The Alaskan Railroad law providing for Government construction and operation of 1,000 miles of railroad with telegraph and telephone lines, from the lower Pacific coast to interior waters and mineral region of Alaska at a cost not to exceed $35,000,000.

Laws placing on a war footing the volunteer militia and naval militia of the States, subjecting them in time of war to the call of the signal corps of the army.

Law regulating cotton future sales on stock exchanges, providing a tax of two cents a pound on sales for future delivery, unless actually delivered under conditions and grades established by the Department of Agriculture.

The reform of the tariff.

The income tax put on the statute book.

Amendment to Panama Canal Act admitting to American registry for eign ships of American ownership to overseas and South American trade.

Emergency currency act permitting banks of national currency associations to issue circulating notes up to 125 per cent of their unimpaired capital and surplus and making available to banks of the country more than $1,000,000,000 of emergency currency.

Law creating in the Treasury Department a Bureau of War Risk Insurance, appropriating $5,000,000 to insure ships of American registry against hazards of the European war.

Resolutions appropriating $2,750,000 for protection and transportation of American citizens stranded in European war zones and authorizing the American Red Cross Society to charter a ship of foreign registry and fly the American flag.

Governor Beckham and Senator Camden, the Democratic nominees for the United States Senate, heartily approve these measures and if elected will continue to support Presidents Wilson's wise and patriotic policies.

If Augustus E. Willson or Burton Vance, the republican nominees, are elected they will vote to destroy the labor of the democrats in Congress, and put every possible obstacle in the way of the President.

It is the patriotic duty of every Kentucky Democrat to vote the straight ticket in November.

Celebrated His Release.

Frank Brown, col., who was acquitted of a charge of robbery Friday went out to Masonville the same night and got into a fight at the Steger farm with Hemp Drane and his son, in which Brown got the worst of it. Drane got out a warrant for his arrest Saturday.

The Chinese rely on the Japs for their matches, and the imports are very heavy.

Dialect of Croatia.
The dialect spoken by the Croats is practically the same as that spoken by the Servians, but, while the latter use the Cyrillic (Russian) alphabet, the former employ the Latin. Croatia and Slavonia form, together with their former military frontier, a crown land belonging to the Hungarian section of Austria lying between the Adriatic sea, on the southwest, where Croatia has a seaboard of about 84 miles, and Hungary, on the northeast. The Croats (originally Chorvats, mountaineers—from chora or gora, a mountain) are tall and strong, honest, and good-

the Hungarian diet, and there must,
by special convention, always be a

NEW RENAISSANCE AT HAND

Conditions in America to Lead to Development of a Great Science and a Great Art.

Culture, the sciences, and the industrial arts are stimulated by much the same conditions, says the Engineering magazine. In the seventh and sixth centuries B. C., the conditions which aroused the Greek settlements led almost simultaneously to the rise of industry, the fine arts, and systematic thinking. In the Italian Renaissance the new ideas derived from contact with the East in trade, and with the ancients in culture, produced not only the merchant princes of Florence and Venice, but also the artists, and the pioneers of science. In America, today, conditions resemble those which existed in the periods just mentioned. Here there is not only boundless opportunity, but the old world traditions which would have closed these opportunities to the masses have been broken. Here the contrasts between rich and poor are so sharp as to awaken even the dullest minds to the drama of life. Inasmuch as people are aroused in proportion as that which they desire seems attainable to them, a bold and even audacious courage prevails; talent is keenly appreciated, and an immense fund of energy is released.

The first result of this energy is a stupendous industry. The next results of it will be in America, as in Greece and Italy, a great science and a great art. Modern America, indeed, represents a new Renaissance,
now in progress.

NEW TREATMENT FOR INSANE

South African Physician Claims to Have Secured Good Results by Use of Oxygen.

A new and extraordinary use for oxygen has just been found by Doctor Toulouse, chief physician of the Viljeuif (South Africa) Insane asylum. He finds it a most valuable aid in the treatment of madness.

Doctor Toulouse makes certain that the oxygen in the steel cylinders in which he receives it is pure and free from nitrogen; then he fills small glass flasks with it. A rubber bulb enables him to regulate the pressure in the flasks, and a rubber tube connects these with a fine hypodermic needle. Through this 250 cubic centimeters of oxygen are injected under the skin.

A physician who has watched the operation and its effects upon patients says the results are remarkable among patients in a condition of acute mental confusion, who are always greatly improved and often cured entirely by a few injections.
The excited and victims of insomnia become calm and lucid.

In case of acute mania, dementia, epileptic fits and certain cases of melancholia good results have been obtained. The oxygen treatment is now being tried upon other forms of insanity.

FRANK STATEMENT.

"I suppose you are still trying to save the country?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum.
"The country is safe enough. What I'm hoping is that my particular section will do a little rescue work for me."

HE COULDN'T.

"A tramp at the back door who has already eaten a piece of that pie I made yesterday wants to know if you can do anything for him?"

"Tell him, my dear, that I am a commission merchant, not a doctor."

NO LONGER ORTHODOX.

"Is your new minister thoroughly orthodox?"

"Hardly. He says he does not regard religion as a fire escape."

AND WORRYING OVER THE JOB.

"Some people believe that eating salt turns the hair gray."

"It's earning my salt that turned mine gray."

HEARD AT THE BEACH.

WAR! What Is It All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour glistering just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia?

Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation.
Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom.
Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades;
through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof.
Grosvenor completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past lie the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

BENEFIT IS IN THE CHANGE

To Get Best Results From Vacation the Surroundings Should Be New and Interesting.

Sometimes it seems as if a course of instruction in the complications of vacation taking should be established for those deluded folk who year after year return more tired and less fit for work than when they left. Experts are needed to teach the philosophy of the vacation, to interpret it, to tell what it is for and how it can be made most effective.

A little light on the question is gained by looking up the derivation of the word "vacation" in the dictionary. Its Latin root means "empty." Men first thought of vacations as something that emptied the mind of routine problems, perplexities, responsibilities and worries. The modern world goes further and demands that vacations be filled. The best vacation is that which fills every day with the thoughts that people have no time to think at home—thoughts of woods, fishing pools, green fields, the song of birds and lakes that shimmer lazily. Then from the vacation is to be expected a regeneration that will send one back to his work with a song in his heart, strengthened to do useful tasks.

The most beneficial vacation is secured by as complete a change as possible. Mental and physical stimulus is born in the shock of new things, new thoughts, new sentiments and desires.

TESTING A NEW SEARCHLIGHT

New York Navy Yard, It Is Believed, Has the Most Powerful That Has Yet Been Built.

The largest, electric lamp in the world was lighted on a recent night in the New York navy yard. The beam of this giant searchlight, under favorable conditions, can be seen more than one hundred miles away.

The new lamp is called the Beck searchlight, and is the invention of Heinrich Beck, a German scientist, who is here conducting tests for the United States government.

Measured at two miles from the lamp 450,000,000 candle power is obtained from a lamp with a 44-inch reflector. The present 44-inch lamp in use on the world's battleships gives only 60,000,000 candle power. For coast defense a 60-inch reflector is now in use. Such a reflector hitched to the Beck searchlight gives 1,000,000,000 candle power as against 180,000,000 candle power now obtainable.

Germany is now busy building several hundred of the new Beck searchlights and if the tests here satisfy the government it is likely that the new lamp will replace the searchlights in use in the navy.

ABSURD STORY.

"L'Italie," a French paper published in Rome, recently made the absurd announcement that the French government proposed to present to Italy, in recognition of the restoration of "La Joconde," a predella by Gentile da Fabriano which is in the Louvre. The report was magnified into a statement that the Conseil des Musées Nationales had already decided on this gift. It is hardly necessary to say, remarks American Art News, that no picture could be removed from the Louvre without an act of the assembly and that no such step has ever been contemplated by the government or anyone else.

CLOCK TO RUN 30,000 YEARS.

Mr. Harrison Martingale of London claims that a clock he has invented could run for 30,000 years, if not touched. It contains a tube of radium, to the lower end of which two long strips of silver are attached. The natural action of the radium sends an electric charge into the strips and causes them to touch the sides of a glass vessel in which they are suspended. Every two minutes this operation is repeated automatically, so that each beat of this wonderful clock lasts two minutes.

STATUE OF VENUS FOUND.

A life-sized Parian marble statue of Venus has been found by excavators near Cyrene, North Africa, which in the early centuries was the seat of Greek culture. The statue, which dates back to the fourth century, B. C.—the time of Praxiteles, once stood in the Temple of Apollo. It will be brought to Rome in June, to be placed in the National museum.

WORDS FROM HOME

Statements That May Be Investigated—Testimony of Hopkinsville Citizens.

When a Hopkinsville citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Hopkinsville resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Mrs. J. H. Morris, 514 O'Neal St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I suffered from severe pains in my back and could find nothing that would do me any good. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a box. They greatly benefited me."

Mrs. Morris is only one of many Hopkinsville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Morris had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

TOO TOUGH FOR AUTOMOBILE

Bull, Tossed Thirty Feet Down Embankment, Returned for Revenge on the Driver.

Here is a bird of a bull that an automobile going fifty miles an hour can't lick.

The only thing that can even scare this bull—he belongs to John Heaton of West Orange, N. J.—is a bolt of lightning. When that shot near him the bull jumped the fence in front of a motor car driven by Edwin Hastings of Hanover, N. J. Mr. Hastings says he was going fifty miles an hour, for his little children were with him and he was streaking for home.

Across the road is an embankment. The auto flung the bull into the air and dropped him down thirty feet of slope. The car nearly followed, but skidded against a tree.

Hastings descended to locate the corpse. But not that bull! Out of a tangle of shrubbery he charged at Hastings, who found a tree. The bull dropped back and came on again. This time Hastings made the top of a well curb and was out of reach.

From there he yelled to his children, who got several men with pitchforks, who managed to hold the bull at bay until Hastings escaped to the road.

About an hour later the bull swaggled up the embankment and on to the road, then through the gate, back to his herd.

IN HIS LINE

"H'm, guess I'll go in an' git dat job."

A GOOD VACATION.

A good vacation is one that has a soul in it. A purposeless vacation is a waste of time. The purpose may be absolute quiet and rest, but even in that there should be the flavor of some little thinking about things worth while. There is more to traveling than just to go; we must go somewhere, and go for some purpose. We must bring something back in the way of a rested and invigorated body, a refreshed and clarified mind, an enlarged affection. We must go somewhere where we can get infected with good, as well as keep away from places where we may be infected with disease. To seek the conditions where we can give something to others is the only way to find the conditions under which we can get anything worth bringing home. If we leave a good impression behind us at the place of our resort we cannot avoid carrying away something good. A good vacation is a golden rule vacation.—Universalist Leader.

STRAWBERRIES DANGEROUS!

Strawberries in large quantities are conducive of a drunken stupor and dizziness akin to intoxication and are listed as a dangerous cargo. Vessels carrying a cargo of strawberries are positively not allowed to carry passengers and the crew is forced to stay on deck most of the time.

The fumes of the strawberries are so strong that it throws a sort of dizziness over a passenger, which, together with seasickness, sometimes forces the person to undergo a physician's care.

"Well, what is it?" "Kill off the men."

DIED IN HENDERSON

Remains Brought Here and Interred in Riverside Cemetery Yesterday.

The following telegram was sent out from Henderson Sunday night: "P. B. Moseley, former Henderson saloonkeeper, was found dead in the Lottie hotel at 11 o'clock tonight. An empty carbolio acid bottle was found beside him. His lips were burned. Despondency due to financial trouble is the only known cause for the act. He has a sister living in Henderson and one in Hopkinsville."

Mr. Moseley was reared in this county and at one time resided in this city. He was in business at Henderson, but recently he had been engaged in the mercantile business at Dawson. About ten days ago he sold out and removed to Henderson. Mr. Moseley was about 45 years old. He is survived by three brothers, S. P. Moseley, of near Casky; Robert Moseley, of Lafayette; Dabney Moseley, of Guthrie, and one sister, Mrs. G. W. Southall, of city.

The remains arrived here yesterday morning and the interment followed at 10 o'clock in Riverside Cemetery.

Armistice Ends.

The latest peace conference in Mexico has adjourned without result and the armistice has been ended. A fight has taken place in Chihuahua between 2,000 Villa troops and 1,200 Carranza men under Gen. Herrera, in which 300 were killed on each side. As Herrera attacked, the Villa leaders disarmed forty of their own men on the charge that they intended to assist the Herrera troops. These men were imprisoned in a building on the outskirts of the town and after the battle it was discovered they all had been killed. Villa leaders charged they had been slaughtered by Herrera's men.

Fired The Woods.

Germans have been dropping bombs into Warsaw, Poland, and one day 44 people were killed, 35 of them civilians. The fierce fighting along the Vistula is becoming a death grapple, and few prisoners are being taken. At one place the Russians fired a forest filled with Germans and smoked them out.

Morris-Ramsey.

The following notice of the marriage of Mr. William Morris of this city to Miss Ada Ramsey, is from the Russellville News-Democrat:

One of the prettiest weddings of the season occurred at the Christian church last Tuesday when Mr. William Morris, of Hopkinsville, Ky., led to the altar Miss Ada Ramsey, one of the city's most attractive young ladies and daughter of Mr. Wm. Ramsey of this city.

Promptly at 2:45 the musical program began and Mrs. V. W. Wallace sang "Oh Promise Me" and "Loves Coronation" and this was immediately followed by the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. J. K. W. Piper and the wedding party entered and proceeded to the altar where the ceremony was pronounced by Brother V. W. Wallace, which united the destinies of these two young people in the holy bonds of wedlock.

The ushers were Mr. Edwin Coffman and Mr. Leland Stiles of this city, and the attendants were Miss Hilda Shelton, of this city, as bridesmaid, and Mr. Elliott, of Hopkinsville, was the best man. Dainty little Henry Morgan was the ring bearer.

Mr. Morris is a young man of sterling quality and a successful dairyman of Hopkinsville, while Miss Ramsey is one of the city's fairest and most popular young ladies.

The happy young couple left on the afternoon train to spend their honeymoon in the South, after which they will return to Hopkinsville to reside permanently.

First "Game Law."

The first "game law" for the protection of wild animals and birds was enacted in 1068 by William the Conqueror. This decree of the Norman king was called a forest law, but its principal purpose was the preservation of game. Forfeiture of property was made a penalty for killing or disabling any kind of wild beast, while the slayer of a stag, buck or boar, if convicted, had his eyes put out. These laws, of course, applied only to the masses, since the royalty and nobility were permitted to kill as much as they pleased. In fact, the principal purpose of the pioneer "game law" was to provide sport for the few. The first parliamentary game law in England was passed in 1496. Game laws in America have become increasingly strict of late years, but they were adopted too late to save many species, notably the buffalo, from almost complete extinction.

President Approves.

President Wilson expresses his approval of the Fifth National Tuberculosis Day Movement during the week of November 29th and also of the work of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a letter to Dr. George M. Kober, the president of that body, made public today. He says, among other things:

"I know that I need not assure you of my very profound interest in and sympathy with the work of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, and I am delighted to know that you feel encouraged by the results of its efforts. I sincerely hope that November 29th, the day which you have designated as Tuberculosis Day, will result in awakening the people of the United States still further not only to the necessity, but to the perfect feasibility, of arresting and preventing this terrible disease."

A number of governors are issuing proclamations on the Tuberculosis Day Campaign, calling on the churches and schools to unite during the week of November 29th in an educational campaign against tuberculosis. The movement is not for the purpose of raising funds, but simply to bring to the people all over the country the essential facts with reference to the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

Clergymen and others may secure literature for the preparation of addresses and for general distribution from their local anti-tuberculosis societies or from the office of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, 105 East 22nd Street, New York.

HARRODSBURG TWIN STORY

A Girl Who Was Unable To Pick Out Her Own Sweetheart.

Chester and Clarence Irvin, 19-year-old twins, of Edwards, Miss., are the cause of confusion everywhere they go because of their absolute similarity. They are exactly the same height, exactly the same breadth, dress in the same way, have the same expression and carriage, and, too, they are related in the such away that when one suffers from headache or other ailments, the other twin is similarly affected. In school, when one of the boys had been naughty and was kept in during the noon hour the guilty boy would go over to where his brother was sitting and get "mixed up" with the other twin. When the noon hour came the teacher would not know which was which, and no one else in the building would know but Chester and Clarence; but, of course, Chester was generally the guilty twin and would not own up that he was Clarence. Clarence would say he was Clarence and was innocent and Chester would still contend that he was Clarence. The teacher was unable, therefore, to administer the punishment, and the boys were laughed out of school. The climax came the other day when a show came to town and Chester made an engagement to take a young lady to the opera house that night. Clarence knew of the engagement, and just for fun thought he would get ready before Chester and escort the girl. Chester got ready at last, and hurried around to the young lady's residence, to find she and his brother had gone. She was sorely perplexed when Chester arrived at the Opera house ten minutes later and told her that she had been tricked by his brother.—Harrodsburg Herald.
